

Anthropology of Disasters Research School

March 19–30, 2012

At Karakorum International University,
Gilgit-Baltistan/ Pakistan

Ph.D. students in anthropology at German universities who are engaged in research about „natural“ disasters are invited to apply for participation.

The research school provides a unique opportunity for students from German and Pakistani universities to present and discuss their projects. The programme includes a five days workshop at KIU and an excursion in Gilgit-Baltistan. Research projects to be presented at the research school need not focus on disasters in Pakistan; case studies from other parts of the world are most welcome.

The programme is jointly organised by LMU Munich, QAU Islamabad and KIU Gilgit.

Faculty of the research school:

Prof. Dr. Azam Chaudhary, National Institute of Pakistan Studies, Quaid-I-Azam University, Islamabad / Roland Hansen, Malteser International, Cologne / Prof. Dr. Ute Luig, Free University Berlin / Prof. Dr. Martin Sökefeld, Ludwig-Maximilians-University Munich / Dr. Emma Varley, Lahore University of Management and Science

Information about programme & application for students at German universities:

www.ethnologie.lmu.de/disasters // disasters@ethnologie.lmu.de

Deadline for applications: December 15, 2011